

Dropper :

These devices look like thin tubes made of plastic or glass, tapering off to a narrow end. They usually have a rubber or plastic bulb at the end for facilitating liquid intake. Air pressure and vacuum help draw fluid up the pipe, making them ideal for transferring blood samples.